DID YOU KNOW?*

- » When it comes to endurance, dogs are naturally great athletes.
- » Just by feeding the right food, you can improve your dog's athleticism.
- » Unlike humans, your dog's main energy source comes from fat not carbs.
- » A diet high in fat and protein will increase an active dog's metabolism and his endurance.
- » When comparing things like oxygen use (VO2 Max, a measure of athletic ability), even dogs who sleep all day have more endurance than the greatest human athletes.

^{*}The data came from Arleigh Reynolds in 1995, as data published in abstract form. Reynolds and Coworkers, FASEB Journal, 1995.

Celebrating 10 Years Of Helping Rescue Groups Nationwide

When a rescued dog or cat needs care, it's often a small rescue group who is there by their side. But these small groups are sometimes unheard or unseen.

Since it began in 2005, Purina® Pro Plan® Rally to Rescue® has been committed to helping these groups give pets the nutrition, care, and loving homes they deserve. In doing so, we support hundreds of rescue groups across the country by providing high-quality nutrition, financial support, marketing materials, and networking opportunities.
